Thanks a lot for the update, Lisa. I've "bcc'ed" the divers on this.

I'm sure the family and you folks at DNR feel better that you can sort of close this initial part.

Now comes the investigation of the equipment, the medical examiner, etc. It will be a long time before you get whatever details and conclusions they may come up with.
I appreciate you keeping us posted.

-take care

Hi Rob,

FYI – please share with your divers. At least we have some closure. The folks here appreciated your message.

Subject: David Scheinost - Update

At approximately 1:20 this afternoon, a search and recovery team located David Scheinost's body in the general area where David was lost three days ago. The recovery team is in process of retrieving David's body and transporting it to an appropriate facility. David's family has been notified; several family members are on site. I know that the recovery will help to bring closure for David's family, friends, and colleagues.

I am deeply grateful to all those who participated in the search and recovery effort, as well as all those who supported the search and recovery from both near and afar. I especially want to thank DNR's Aquatic Resources Division and Law Enforcement Program, Washington State Department of Fish and Wildlife, Bainbridge Island Police Department, Kitsap County Sheriff's Office, Pierce County Sheriff's Office, Poulsbo Police Department, Seattle Fire and Police Departments, U.S. Coast Guard, and U.S. Navy.

I will forward information as to a memorial service or other remembrance of David as soon as this becomes available.
